INTERESTING ITEMS FROM A GENTLEMAN'S LIBRARY (or some good second-hand books)!

Salute the Carthorse • Wright £ 7.50 (E)

First (and only?) 1971 edition of the Revd. Philip Wright's affectionate tribute to the four heavy horse breeds, including Stable Care, the Day's Work, Training and Welfare, and Reminiscences. 80 pages, 40 B&W photos, numerous sketched. Hardbound. Ian Allan. Cover slightly dirty on reverse, otherwise good condition.

The Great Days of the Country Railway • Thomas & Whitehouse £ 4.50 (A)

The Great Days of the Express Trains • Thomas & Whitehouse £ 4.50 (A)

Dating from 1991 (Fifth Impression) & 1990 respectively, these are both, in one sense, David & Charles 'pot-boilers', but David St John Thomas and Patrick Whitehouse were good writers, and all D & C books have high production values, so these are enjoyable, and readable, books on various aspects of Britain's railways. Full of mainly B&W photos, plus colour reproductions of paintings, postcards and ephemera. 208 & 208 respectively. Hardbound. Both in very good condition

From Inverness to Crewe • Evans £12.95 (D)

Martin Evans' 1966 classic on the development of the British 4-6-0 steam locomotive, from the Highland Railway's 'Jones Goods' to the BR standards, grouped by railway or designer. Lots of technical info. 164 well illustrated pages. Hardback. No dust jacket, and light spotting to a few pages, otherwise good. Model Aeronautical Press

An Illustrated History of the London, Midland & Scottish Railway • Twells £ 4.50 (D)

From 1986, here are 150 B&W photos around the LMS during its existence, showing pre-grouping locos at work, as well as those built by the LMS itself. Some photos a tad murky, but interesting, with a potted seven pages summary. 120 pages. Hardback. Good.
